Why ACAP?

Where else can you learn to be a model, be an actor, be a makeup artist, go in front of a camera, go behind the camera, go for a photo shoot, or be a photographer that is actually doing the photo shoot? What about learning to be the best actress/actors and get filmed in your first commercial or be on a television show that is airing live right now? How about learning to writing scripts, record, edit, use special audio, visual, and lighting techniques? What about being on stage and in a performance for all of your friends and family to come see? What about learning all about yourself, or learning how to get a new job, change a career, learn to cope with all the changes with some social grace? What about marketing you, we have so much to offer “you”, need some help? What about being taught from some of the best instructors in Michigan? I think you’re starting to get the idea of the artistic productions we produce. Check us out at www.AcapMichigan.com, come join our team and be part of the fun!

ACAP Models

Modeling is more than just walking down a runway – it's more than just worrying about how you look. ACAP models are "Role Models." In addition to the overall training our Academy provides, we prepare each student with the professional experience and knowledge to become a better person – both inside and out. Our models are intuitive about the business; they are professionals; they are confident; they have endless motivation; they are very creative and genuine; and they gain and earn respect from their peers. They become famous mentors for others just getting into the business. Be one of our models, be a mentor, be a "Role Model"!

TUITION: $840.00

DESCRIPTION: This course will teach the art of self-promotion – specifically how to effectively position, market and advertise yourself successfully. This course will help students create a professional appearance or “persona” that sells; it will teach students how to build and maintain a resume, portfolio and composition book; and finally, the course will cover effective industry marketing techniques and venues that generate results. This is a career development curriculum designed to prepare individuals for professional success.

A SNEAK PEAK OF WEEK 2...

Marketing research and planning:

In this session, students will spend time researching career opportunities. They will use their assessment sheets to identify their personal qualifications and goals. This assessment will help students identify firms offering jobs that align with their career objectives. Once students identify their personal career objectives, they will be required to research and create a list of firms that best fit their chosen career path. With the help of the instructor, students will develop a list of necessary marketing materials and promotional strategies that will lead to interviews, auditions and jobs. Professional presentation and follow-up procedures will be covered in this class along with media advertising costs and creating a marketing budget.

WHAT THIS COURSE OFFERS:

Self-promotion is so important for freelance and contract success. This course covers the following the following topics:

- Personal Assessment on goals, strengths along with information for creating a unique persona and brand image.
- Marketing research and planning
- Creating a resume, cover letter and portfolio
- Developing a personal, professional style that sells
- Self-promotion media venues
- Creating your own marketing and advertising campaign
